New Jersey Wireless Association Appoints V-COMM's President to the Board of Trustees

Cranbury, NJ (May, 2010) – The New Jersey Wireless Association (NJWA) announced Dominic Villecco, president and founder of V-COMM, L.L.C. as the new co-chair of their Public Safety Committee, at their 2010 Annual Meeting of Members. The NJWA has been working with several townships throughout the State regarding wireless ordinances. In 2009, the Association successfully introduced the NJ Siting Legislation, which they will continue to work on throughout 2010. Since its inception in 2006, the NJWA has regularly donated to charitable organizations throughout New Jersey, and holds a charitable golf tournament each year to raise money for these organizations.

“Public Safety Communicators are an essential group we represent at the NJWA,” says Stacie Curtis, president of the New Jersey Wireless Association. “We are extremely happy to have Dominic on that committee now to offer his insight and expertise in that area.
